- Put the Blockbuster game board in the middle of a table
 - Each of you should pick a color of marker or pencil that is different from everyone else
 - Each time you get a correct answer, you will color in one of the cells or octagons with your color
- The object is to get an uninterrupted line of your color from one side to the next, going either direction, top to bottom or side to side (top to bottom is shortest)
- When you get a correct answer, you need to decide whether you are going to add onto your line – or whether you are going to BLOCK someone else's line.
 - The questions should be face down in front of you. There is an order to the questions
 - After the question is answered, – place it in the box labeled FACE UP – so they stay in the same order
 - Go around clockwise around the table. Each taking your turn to answer a question as someone reads it to you. If you get it right, color in your cell – if not, you don't get to color this time.
 - The answers are not on the card. The reference to find the answer is there. However, YOU MAY NOT LOOK UP THE ANSWER when you are answering your question – you may only look it up when you are seeing if it is correct.
 - Whoever has the next birthday gets to go first.
